Re: In the Matter of Petition of USTelecom for Forbearance Pursuant to 47 U.S.C. Section 160(c); WC Docket No. 18-141; Category 1

Dear FCC,

ISPs in the United States are very much a monopoly and do not offer customers with adequate service for the prices they charge. After being with Att for over 2 year and getting a barely acceptable service, I switched to Sonic, which has offered me a much better option (fiber) at the same cost ATT was charging for 24mbps internet.

Competition is healthy and it is the customers to win and thus the government. If companies such as Att and Comcast are given full control over Internet, which is one of the most used service within American households, they will prevent the growth and development of the technology. They will also increase price because they will have full control over the market. This would be unfair and very unamerican.
